Containing the freshest Advices, Foreign and Domestick.

From Friday, November 18, to Friday, November 25, 1737.

From the Daily Gazetteer, Sept. 7.

THE Letters from Petersburg, which are of the 11th ult. O. S. say, that General Lascy having clear'd the difficult Pats of the Dead Sea, continued his March, burning and destroying all the little Towns and Villages he came to, and defeating several Detachments of Turks and Tartars in his Way to Bazar, where he and Lieutenant-General Douglas having cut in Pieces a Body of Turks on the 15th, that had taken Post before that Place, the Town was afterwards forced, every Enemy put to the Sword, and after a general Plunder, the Town, with its Suburbs was intirely reduced to Ashes. It appears that this was no inconsiderable Place, there being near 10,000 Houses in it, of which above 8000 were of Stone; beside 200 Houses in the Jews Quarter; 27 Warehouses, 2 Greek Churches, one Armenian, one Synagogue, and 38 Mosques, and in the Suburbs 50 Water-Mills.

The Town being situate in such narrow Avenues of the Mountains, that scarce 3 Men could march in Front, and there being moreover a great Want of Forrage, the Marshal thought fit to quit those Mountains; and in 5 Days March from the River Karas to the Mouth of that of Sangarski, thro' a populous Country, he reduced above a thousand little Towns, Villages and Habitations to Ashes, took near 60,000 Head of Cattle; and on the 24th of July O. S. crossed the River Sangarski, into a Country abounding with Forrage, where he proposed to rest a few Days from the Fatigue of several Skirmishes which he had had with the Turks and Tartars, and then to renew his Operations against them.

There is a Letter from Ratisbon, which mentions Advices said to be brought by another to the Count de Wallis, from the Baron Ghilany, dated the 2d ult. O. S. from Tergovisto. These Advices are too material not to be mentioned, tho' they need to be confirmed before they are credited. The Baron tells the Count, among other Things, that one Janacky Saidchi had brought him the agreeable News, that the Russian Army under Count Munich having attack'd the Turks on the 22d of July O. S. the Turks, whose Army consisted of 160,000 Men were, after a Battle of 3 Days, put to the Rout, and retir'd partly into the Town of Bender, and partly under the Cannon of that Place; where the Russians invested and intirely defeated them, and took the Town of Bender, the Vizier being retired to Hakete on the other Side of the Danube.

The Letters from Vienna, which are of the 20th ult. O. S. say, that the Day before the Court received an Express, with News of a very smart Action upon the Save. The Prince of Saxe-Hilburghausen, having embark'd his Infantry in order to join the grand Army, while the Horse march'd for the same Purpose by Land, the Turks advanced towards that River with a large Body, to cut off those Troops; but the Prince, after having bravely stood their first Attack, obliged them to fly, with the Loss of above 3000 Men. The Baron de Gamming, a Captain in the Regiment of Aremberg, arrived at Vienna the same Evening from the Grand Army, 'twas immediately rumour'd, that he was sent from Count Seckendorff, to inform the Emperor, that Count Munich had gain'd a great Victory over the Turks near Bender, and killed above 20,000 of them on the Spot: But of this we must also wait for the Confirmation and Particulars. The Count de Khevenhuller has sent for more Troops to invest and block up the City of Widdin.

The Senate of Venice has received an Express from Vienna with Advice, that the Imperial Ministry have declared, that if the Republick does not join in the War against the Turks, the Emperor will think himself no longer engag'd by this present Alliance with that State.

Sept. 10. According to Letters from Petersburg of the 16th of last Month, O. S. there was the 13th a tripple Discharge of all the Artillery from the Fortresses for the taking of Karras-Bassar, and other Advantages gained by the Army under General Lascy in the Crim Tartary, where the Booty taken by the Russians is so considerable, that an Ox is sold for a Ruble. The General tried several Times, in vain, to bring the Turks and Tartars to a Battle, who as often as the Russians appeared, retired to the Mountains and other inaccessible Places. Some Prisoners reported, indeed, that the Kan of the Tartars, whose Army consisted of above 70,000 Men, and had been reinforced by 20,000 Turks, all Select Men, often express'd his Desire to come to an Engagement with the Muscovites; but the Turkish Bascha always oppos'd it, by telling him, that the Loss of a Battle would infallibly be attended with the Loss of all the Crim Tartary. The General Lascy finding it impracticable to pursue them in the Mountains, where three Men can scarce march abreast, repass'd the Sea to the main Land. They had received Advice at Petersburg, that the Grand Vizier was deposed and banished to Negropont; that his Kia Aga and Kissar Aga, were strangled, and that the Seraskier Abdulla-Basha who commands at Bender, is made Grand Vizier in his room, who is of the Kiuperli Family, and they say an able and very enterprising Man.

They have the same Advices at Vienna from the Frontiers, with this Difference only, that according to some Accounts, the Bascha of Bosnia is the new Grand Vizier. But the News of Count Munich's Victory over the Turks at Bender, is not confirmed by the freshest Letters from Vienna, which are of the 24th ult. O. S. and say that the Turks have thrown a Supply of 3000 Men into the Town of Widdin, for which the Garrison made great Rejoicings; and 'twas believed by some, that because the Season is so far advanced, the Siege will be deferred.

The Letters from Petersburg say, the Court received an Express on the 4th ult. O. S. from Count Munich, but no Account is made publick of his March, and 'twas the Opinion of some People, that he was not very far from the River Bog, because the Tartars had destroyed all the Forrage on the other Side of Oczakow, towards the Neister.

They write from Nimirow, That the News of the Grand Vizier's being deposed, is there look'd upon as certain, with this Addition, That the new Grand Vizier has joined the Turkish Army between the Neister and Bender. The Plenipotentiaries have sent several Couriers from Nimirow, to know the Truth of the Report, that Count Munich had given the Turks a decisive Blow near Bender; and in the mean Time, the Conferences are at a Stand.

Vienna, Sept. 12. Letters from the Imperial Army, of the 4th Inst. relate, That Count Seckendorff had ordered Count Marully, who commands at Belgrade, to provide 40,000 Rations of Bread, 20,000 Rations of Oats, for 14 Days.

Days together, and 3000 Waggon's at Zabatz upon the River Save: It is said, that Count Khevenhuller and Count Wallis will keep Widdin blockaded, and that General Seckendorff and Prince Hilburghausen will make the Siege of Zwornick in Bosnia, and endeavour to subdue that Province intirely, in order to procure Winter Quarters there for the greatest Part of the Army.

Sept. 13. Letters of the 27th ult. from Vienna, say positively, that Orders are sent to General Seckendorff to change the Siege of Widdin into a Blockade, and to march with his Army towards Bosnia: That there are Advices from Turkey, that the Basha of Nissa no sooner arrived at Adrianople, but he was strangled, by Order of the Porte, for giving up that Place without striking a Blow; and that the Aga who negociated the Capitulation with the Imperial General Philippi, suffered the same Fate.

The Letters add, that the Duke of Lorain arrived that Morning at the Imperial Court from the Army, and will be soon followed by his Brother Prince Charles, and that the Plan of the Operations of War against the Turks is intirely changed; it being determined that during the Remainder of the Campaign, while Widdin continues block'd up, Count Seckendorff with the Grand Army shall act against Bosnia, where the Turks have assembled their main Force. The Alteration made in this respect, was the more necessary, because, if the Operations of the Campaign were to be prosecuted in Bulgaria, the Turks, who have already made Incursions into Imperial Servia, where they burn, plunder, and massacre all that comes in their Way, might penetrate to the Confines of Stiria: So that the only Siege which will be undertaken this Year, will be that of Zwornick, an important Post in Bosnia, which covers a great Tract of Country.

The Emperor has received a Cabinet Courier from Poland, with Advice, 'That the Republick is resolv'd to renew its Claim to Choczim, which has hitherto been usurped by the Ottoman Porte; that the Restitution of this Place is to be propos'd at the Congress of Nimirow; that if the Ottoman Porte refuses it, Recourse shall be had to Force of Arms to recover it; and that the Crown Army, which is 24,000 Men strong, has already received Orders to march towards Choczim with a Train of Artillery.'

The Imperial Court has sent an Express to the Count de Seckendorff, to inform him of this great News, which will in all Likelihood contribute very much to the Success of the common Cause against the Turks.

Letters of the 20th ult. from Petersburg say, that an Express is arriv'd there from General Laszy in Crim Tartary, with Advice, that the Russian Army under his Command has intirely defeated the Tartars, who were supported by a great Body of the Turks, commanded by the Kan of the Tartars and a Turkish Basha; but that they have had no Account of any considerable Action between the Russians and Turks on the Road from Oczakow to Bender.

According to their freshest Advices from the Russian Army, the Forces under Count Munich are halted between the Bog and the Niefter, in order to get Forrage, and to wait for the Arrival of a Convoy from the Ukraine. That General carries about with him the Basha, the Seraskiers, and the other Turkish Officers that he took Prisoners at Oczakow, imagining that their Presence in his Army will be one Means to intimidate the Garrison of Bender. Mean Time, the Bucklers and magnificent Sabres taken from them, have been expos'd in one of the Halls of the Czarina's Palace at Petershoff, together with the Standards and Horse Tails that were made Prizes upon the same Occasion. These Letters add an Article of News from the Congress at Nimirow, importing, that the Grand Vizier has been sacrificed to the Discontent of the Porte; that instead of that Policy and Capacity which they expected in him, he had turn'd out a Fool and a Dastard; and that his Two intire Favourites, viz. his Chancellor and his chief Secretary, who was a Hungarian Renegado, had been strangled, by Order of the Grand Seigneur, for having contributed by their mistaken Policy, and their evil Counsels, to the imprudent Measures taken by the Grand Vizier.

The Letters direcly from Nimirow, dated the 16th ult. O. S. say, that there was a great Conference held the Day before, wherein the Turkish Plenipotentiaries declared, 'That it was not consistent with the Grand Seigneur's Dignity for him to treat of a Peace, while War was made upon him: That if the Powers, by whom it was declared, earnestly wished for a Peace, his Highness hoped they would, without any Scruple, agree to a Suspension of Arms, to give a Time for settling the Terms of Accommodation; and that this was the first Article upon which they had Orders to insist.' The Ministers of the Emperor and of Russia have dispatched Couriers to Vienna and Petersburg, to know the Sentiments of their Courts. M. Tahlman, one of the Emperor's Ministers, writes Word, that he has been inform'd from Constantinople, that the Inhabitants of that City are in a very great Consternation and Uneasiness, since the News of the Surrender of Nissa, and the Conquest of Oczakow; and that upon this Occasion the Populace have very much insulted the Christians, and plundered a Convent of Franciscan Fryars, which he protected while he resided at Constantinople.

Edinburgh, Aug. 30. The greatest Rejoicings imaginable were made at Hamilton on the Duke's Arrival there with his new-marry'd Dutchess. The Inhabitants appear'd all in Arms, and saluted them with many Volleys of Shot; and in the Evening there were Bonfires and all other Demonstrations of Joy.

We hear there's a Vessel lying in the Harbour of Lieth, with above 50,000 Ells of Linen Cloth, &c. on board, bound for London. Her Cargo is valued at more than 10,000 l. Sterling.

We are certainly inform'd, that all the Ministers in the County of Caithness have read the late Act in relation to Capt. Porteous, as have likewise the Synod of Murray, a few only excepted.

His Majesty's Warrant is arriv'd in Town, for a Plate of 100 Guineas to be run for on the Sands of Leith this Year, as usual.

Edinburg, Sept. 6. On Sunday, the Act for the more effectual bringing to Justice the Murderers of Capt. Porteous, was read in 3 of the Churches of this City, viz. the old Church, the College Church, and Haddo's Hole: And 'tis said would have been read in 2 more, had not the Ministers belonging to them been out of Town for their Health.

In the old Church there was some Disturbance made by the Populace without the Rails, which oblig'd the Minister to stop short: But a Gentleman coming out of his Seat, drove the Crowd out of the Church; and the Assistance of the Guard being called for, no Harm ensued. The Minister spoke pathetically to the Populace, representing to them the Danger of such unbecoming Behaviour, and the Mischief they would thereby bring on themselves, and perhaps on the City too, if they did not forbear; adding, that he did not deserve to stand there, if any Thing they could say or do would intimidate him from doing what he judg'd to be his Duty, viz. giving Obedience to the Laws. --- 'Tis remarkable, that not one in the Body of the Church made the least Noise; nor was there any in the rest of the Churches.

Among those who left the Church on this Occasion, was honest John Dalgiesh, alias Jack Ketch, whose Scruples possibly arose from this, That the Publication warn'd Offenders of their Danger, and thus seem'd to be calculated to disappointing him of his proper Business, and the Emoluments arising from thence.

The Minister of West Calder read the Act verbatim in Terms of Law; as did no doubt many others, of whom no Account is yet come to hand.

Dublin, August 30. Of the eight Men that were in the Copper Mine when the Earth fell in upon them, Four were taken up alive, after having remained four Days in the Earth without having any thing to live on but a Pound of Candles; and two Days after two more were found, but so weak, that it was not thought safe to bring them into the Air: They were preserv'd by getting into the Clift of a Rock, on the Top of which another falling, hindered the Earth from closing in upon them, and formed a kind of a Cave. They were at first Six together, but the Earth giving Way a second Time, separated the two latter from the rest. There are an Hundred Men at Work, endeavouring to relieve the other Two, who are thought to be still alive, their Voice having been sometimes heard.

Gloucester, Aug. 27. Yesterday the Two following Malefactors were executed here, viz.

Abraham Wood, and John Wood, Brother by the Father's Side to the aforesaid Abraham, (two Gypsies) who were condemned for robbing H. Lovell (another Gypsy) on the Highway. They were born in Caermarthenshire, the former being about 60, and the latter near 40 Years of Age. Abraham said, that he betook himself to that strolling Way of Life at the Age of 12, and could never be persuaded by the Entreaties of his Friends to forsake it. He confessed that he had been much addicted to drinking, and the Conversation of lewd Women, which he said were his greatest Crimes. He left behind him a Paper in Writing, describing the infamous Course of Life those Strollers lead, who stile themselves Egyptians; of which the following is an Extract. In one Gang belonging to the Lovells and the Bozells (he says) there are no less than 30 Persons, who, when they meet together, strike out some one Way and some another, to elpy out Gentlemen and Farmers Flocks of Sheep, and in the Night-Time re-assemble and steal the best they can find, and what Quantity they please, by catching them with a Dog; and when they come to a Place convenient, skin and draw them, and bury the Skins and Guts, or throw them into some Pool of Water, and sink 'em with Stones; after which they carry the Carcases to some secret Place 6 or 7 Miles distant from that where they stole them, and tear up Hedges, or get any Thing else they can lay their Hands on, and make a Fire, and roast and boil 'til they have devour'd what they have: Often in the mean Time some of them strike out and steal a Horse or Two, and others upon the Highway. That about 6 Years ago Henry Lovell, jun. and Thomas Lovell his Brother, with one Barnaby and Jeffery, Confederates with their Gang, stole 3 Horses from near Tamworth, one of which was a bright Bay cropt Gelding; and a Hue and Cry being sent after them, they escap'd by getting into a Wood, and going off by Night. That the Names of the Bozells that belong to the same Gang, are John Bozell the elder, and his 4 Sons, viz. Peter, John, George, and William. The said John Bozell's Way of Life chiefly consists in Fortune-telling, and deluding unwary Persons of their Money, under a Pretence that, by giving him such a Sum, they should in such a Place find one considerably larger; by which Means he has brought a great many ignorant People to Ruin. He further says, there is one George Kemp, who very often robs on the Highway; that he is a tall, well-looking Man, and pretends to have a Licence, and sells flower'd Wastecoats; that last Summer he broke open a House at Cely in Glamorganshire, from whence he stole 6 Gold Rings, and got off for Bristol; and that he most commonly has Four well drest Women along with him.

The aforesaid Wood desired the Spectators to take Warning how they lent their Money to Strangers, for he only went to receive his own, and Henry Lovell, an old Gypsy, swore this Robbery against him for it. His last Words were, Lord have Mercy upon my Soul! I am innocent of what I die for; and it is wilful Murder I declare.

Bristol, Sept. 10. Yesterday ended the General Goal Delivery for this City and County, when Two Persons received Sentence of Death.

Thomas Hull, an old grey-headed Letcher, who has infested this Country upwards of Five Years; lurking for the Devil's Prey (like an old stinking Fox) under the different Characters and Disguises of a Solicitor, a Gentleman of an Estate, a Steward to a Nobleman, a Cook, a Tapster, and other Shapes; among the rest, he personated a Lady's Footman at one of our Fairs, to decoy a Jew from his Standing, under Pretence that a beautiful young rich Lady his Mistress, was enamoured of his Person; he got the Jew to a Publick House behind the Rose, where he told him, that he could not divulge the entire Secret, as to the Lady's Name, where she lived, &c. unless he would lie with him that Night at his Lodgings at the King David on St. Michael's Hill; and to make the Story more plausible to the poor Jew, he pull'd out a Handful of Money upon the Table, as if the Lady had sent it for the Purpose of his Commission, and making several other strange Offers, the honest Jew began to suspect him for a Villain, and inform'd the Mistress of the House of his vile Insinuations: But old Reynard (well known at Leicester, the Place of his Nativity) was at length caught in Sodomitical Practices with one Robert Rawlins, a young Soldier, at a Publick Inn in this City, who is to mount the Rostrum with this old Badger, according to their Sentence Yesterday.

L O N D O N, Aug. 16.

Sun, Moon, and Stars, in Medals shew,
And set out Crozens with Hearts for you.*

London, Sept. 7. Yesterday was held a Board of Admiralty, when their Lordship's were pleased to appoint Capt. Hanshaw to be Captain of the Phoenix Man of War, who lately commanded the Lyme, which is ordered to be laid up, and the Officers turned over.

Last Thursday died at Amesbury in Wilts, to the great Regret of all his Friends and Acquaintance, Earle Benson, Esq; Eldest Son of Mr. Auditor Benson, by his first Lady, the Daughter of Col. Earle, formerly a Representative in Parliament for the City of Bristol. He dy'd of the Small Pox, as we hear, in the 29th Year of his Age, and was bury'd last Saturday Night, by the Remains of his Mother, in the neighbouring Parish Church of Newton-Toney.

Yesterday Major Mellionere, kiss'd His Majesty's Hand; on his being appointed Lieutenant-Colonel to the Regiment of Dragoons commanded by Major General Churchill.

London, Sept. 8. They write from Scotland, that ever since the Middle of last Month, a Guard has been kept at the Earl of Airley's Seat at Auchterhouse, in the Shire of Angus, upon a Letter being sent from an Incendiary to his Lordship, requiring him to lay 100 l Sterling, hard by the Pigeon House of Lundie, 1-4th of a Mile from thence, threatening, in Case of Non-Compliance, before the 18th of August, the utmost Destruction to His Lordship and Family, by Fire, Powder, and what not, on the 20th. The Letter came from the Post-Office of Dundee, directed to a Gentleman of Edinburgh, under a Cover signed James Douglas, requesting the Inclos'd to be transmitted to the Earl.

Yesterday about One o' Clock in the Afternoon a most dismal Tragedy happened at Counsellor Levinge's Chambers in Hare Court in the Temple, which, as we are informed, was in the following Manner, viz. A young Gentleman, who was about 26 Years of Age, Nephew to Mr. Levinge, and lately came out of Nottinghamshire, having provided himself with a Razor, attempted to kill his Uncle; but the Landress intervening, and striving to prevent him from so doing, he fell on her, and cut her Throat from Ear to Ear, inasmuch that her Head was almost severed from her Body, and she died immediately.

He

He afterward fell again on his Uncle, and cut him across the Nose, Cheek, and Throat, but happily miss'd the Wind-Pipe, and left him for dead; after which, he came to the Window and flung out several Bank Notes to the Value of 400*l.* and cry'd out Murder, and then cut his own Throat and died immediately. This young Gentleman, 'tis said, has been delirious for Two Months past; and 'tis thought the Uncle will not survive.

The Jury will sit on them this Day.
